TAFT'S AMBITION

To be the Successor of President Roosevelt

IS BLIGHTED BY MACHINE.

HE IS WARNED BY THE PRESIDENT TO CUT LOOSE

From "The System" in the Buckeye State or Discard Hope of Republican Nomination in 1908.

Washington, D. C., July 7.—The tender by President Roosevelt of the portfolio of state to former Secretary of War Root instead of to Mr. Secretary Taft is the talk of the hour in Washington. It was predicted on all hands that Taft would be promoted to the place so long filled by Mr. Hay and the assertion was freely and generally made by those high in official circles that such a promotion would send the big Ohioan far along toward the realization of his ambition to be the nominee of his party for the presidency in 1908. Of course there is no question as to President Roosevelt's high regard for Mr. Taft's ability. Neither is there any hint, so far, of any friction between the war secretary and his chief. It is known, however, that President Roosevelt is at heart an uncompromising enemy of the Cox-Dick-Herrick machine in Ohio, and a few weeks ago expressed to an intimate personal friend the fear that Cox, Dick and Herrick would injure Taft in the estimation of the people by the premature use of the secretary's name for the presidency.

The close relations between the President and ex-Secretary Root are well known. It is also a fact that Mr. Roosevelt has the very highest regard for Mr. Root's ability. The big New York lawyer is not only an able advocate but has a reputation for shrewdness that comes dangerously near skirting the edges of sharp practice. He is a corporation lawyer of high skill and acumen. Combat with the ablest men at the bar of New York has sharpened his wits and placed him in the very foremost rank as the champion of any cause whether it be in defense of right or in an attempt to "legalize lawlessness."

Mr. Taft has not had the rough and tumble experience at the bar that Mr. Root has. His talent is a combination of the judicial and the executive. Until called by the President to relinquish his position on the United States Circuit bench to go to the Philippines his duties had been almost wholly of a judicial character. His career as governor general of the Philippines acquainted him with the duties of an executive position; his experience as secretary of war has been of the same general nature.

Reverting to the matter of the President's attitude toward the Ohio machine, it is known that he has been greatly annoyed at the presumption of Cox, Dick and Herrick in attempting to shield themselves behind the record of the national administration and in making use of the name of Taft to serve their guilty ends. It is also known that Mr. Taft himself is disgusted with the Ohio machine and that while he returned from the Ohio Republican convention favorably impressed with the rank and file of the party he was thoroughly sickened by the subservience of the organization to George B. Cox.

President Roosevelt would be well pleased with either Taft or Root as his successor but should Taft receive the influence and favor of the administration, it will be with the explicit understanding that his candidacy be free from the taint of the Cox-Dick-Herrick machine.

Mr. Roosevelt will be able to dictate the nominee of the next Republican national convention and his selection of Root as secretary of state places in his hand another card that will enable him in any event to control the action of his party three years hence. It is known that he desires to have as his successor some man who will to some extent measure up to the same standard of popular approval that he himself enjoyed in 1904. He has intimated to Secretary Taft that no machine-made candidate could fill the bill and has warned him to keep free from complications in Ohio and to ignore "the system" that prevails in the Buckeye state.

TOM JOHNSON MAY BE THE MANAGER

Chicago, July 7.—Mayor Tom Johnson of Cleveland, is being talked of by municipal ownership enthusiasts as a likely man for President of Mayor Dunne's proposed "short cut" company. As outlined in the Mayor's message to the city council Wednesday night, the Mayor and council are to have the selection of the five men who as directors are to organize and manage the company and build and begin the operation of the railway, getting it into shape for the city to take over.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS

Barred by German Premier from Speaking in City of Berlin.

Berlin, July 7.—Chancellor Von Buelow telegraphed to Prince Radolin, the German ambassador at Paris, to inform M. Jaures, the French Socialist leader, that the German government thought it best to debar him from speaking in Berlin July 9, as it had been announced he intended to. The chancellor's telegram to Prince Radolin was as follows:

"The press has announced that Herr Jaures will appear before the Socialistic meeting here July 9. Against the personality of M. Jaures I have nothing to say. I respect his views on foreign policy and not infrequently agree with them. I am glad that on several occasions he has promoted friendly relations between Germany and France. The personal value of M. Jaures is not considered, but the political role placed upon him. The leading organ of the Social Democracy in Germany, the Voerwaerts, announces that the assemblage planned is the beginning of the immediate influence of the Social Democracy on foreign policy, and that a war of the classes will be promoted upon an international foundation.

"The German Socialists would use the presence of Herr Jaures in Berlin to cover by his person their hostile endeavors against the state and national interests. The imperial government can not refrain from using the means at its disposal to prevent the party from seeking to destroy the existing and constitutionally established order. I therefore consider it advisable that the public appearance of Herr Jaures in Berlin shall not take place."

FINDING OF AXE RECALLS MURDER

Fall River, Mass., July 7.—A mild flutter of excitement has been occasioned here by the alleged discovery of an axe buried in the yard of the old Borden residence.

This is the fifth axe alleged to have been found buried or hidden in the vicinity since the famous murder of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Borden, August 14, 1892.

The axe with which Mr. and Mrs. Borden were murdered was searched for in vain at the time of the trial of Miss Lizzie Borden for the murder. Since that time the finding of axes with which the crime might have been committed is a favorite industry in Fall River.

ROOT ACCEPTS

Is Now Arranging to Take the Secretaryship of State in Cabinet.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 7.—Elihu Root has accepted the portfolio of state. Announcement of this fact was made at the executive offices this morning in the following statement:

"Elihu Root has accepted the tender by the President of the secretaryship of state. He will take the oath of office in a couple of weeks, but it will necessarily be some little time before he closes his business affairs. He will not go to Washington permanently until some time in September."

PUBLIC FUNERAL FOR SAILOR.
Cherbourg, France, July 7.—One of the sailors from the American protected cruiser Chattanooga, by the name of Rogers, who was sent here with the fleet to act as the escort for John Paul Jones body, died in a hospital in the town today. It had been decided to give the sailor a public funeral. Delegations from the army and navy will be sent to attend the ceremony.

As a result of an explosion at the shaft of the Taylor Coal and Coke company at Seabright, Pa., five men were killed and four injured, one fatally. Two of the dead are negroes and the other three were foreigners.

While shooting at a mark in company with a neighbor at Sioux City, Iowa, Swan W. Swanson, 40, turned a 32-caliber revolver upon himself and sent a bullet through his brain. Swanson, who is a traveling man, is said to have been despondent.

PERSONS EXEMPT

But the Soulless Bodies of Western Railroads

ARE NOW TO BE FLAYED

CONTEMPT OF COURT IS THE CHARGE MADE

Against Several Carriers Whose Officials Will be Ignored by Prosecution Conducted Under Auspices of Department of Justice.

Chicago, July 7.—Assistant United States Attorneys General Oliver Pagin and M. D. Purdy have begun their preparation for the prosecution of Western railroads on charges of rebating. It was Mr. Purdy who was assigned to take charge of the Santa Fe suit in place of Attorney Judson Harmon who resigned in consequence of the Paul Morton incident. Mr. Purdy filed the suit against the Santa Fe in the Colorado Fuel and Iron case at Kansas City before coming to Chicago. The scope of the prosecution of the western roads for granting preferential tariffs has not been fully determined. In a general way, however, these roads will be prosecuted which are believed to have discriminated in favor of the International Harvester company, and the United States Steel company.

In consequence of the administration policy manifested in the Morton case, the corporations instead of the individuals composing them will be prosecuted. The charge will be contempt of court in evading the injunction. The punishment is a fine of from $1,000 to $20,000 for each offense.

The railroads against which proceedings for contempt are likely to be brought in the International Harvester case are: Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Chicago Great Western; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Chicago and Northwestern; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul; Wisconsin Central.

For discrimination in favor of the United States Steel company, the Baltimore and Ohio and several other eastern roads are in danger of prosecution for violation of the Grosscup injunction restraining the eastern roads in the same manner that the Phillips injunction applied to the western roads.

HORSE'S NEIGH

SCARES LITTLE CHILD TO DEATH

ELIZABETHTOWN, KY., July 7.—Virgil Carrott, aged 3 years, was frightened to death while playing in front of his parents' home near this city. A passing horse gave a shrill neigh, a few feet from the child, and the latter was seen to fall. When picked up the little thing was found to have expired almost instantly. The strange manner of the child's death has produced a decided sensation here.

FATALLY STABBED

New York, July 7.—One member of a self-styled "Black Hand Society" of three men, who had attempted to collect $100 from Pietro Caputo, a saloon keeper of Manhattan, was shot and instantly killed by Caputo, and the two others were wounded, but escaped. First, however, they probably made good their threat to kill Caputo, as he is fatally stabbed. For several months Caputo has been receiving letters demanding money.

CHARGE CONSPIRACY

Washington, July 7.—The grand jury of the District of Columbia reported an indictment for conspiracy against Orrin G. Staples, prominent in hotel and business circles; Track L. Jeffords, former assistant United States attorney; John L. Fehr and Elisha H. Fitch, all of this city. It is charged that the defendants unlawfully conspired to defraud the citizens of the District of Columbia and others by making false representations as to the financial standing and responsibility of the Interstate Live Stock Insurance company of the District.

BOX AND MONEY WERE BOTH GONE

Hammond, Ind., July 7.—Having fear of the stability of banks Sam Shearer, an aged farmer made a hole in his cellar wall for his cash box. When he moved to town after passing his life as a hard working farmer he had an iron box made and placed $5,000 in gold and bills therein.

Shearer sealed up the box in the cellar wall hole last week. When he went to see it it was safe, the box and money were gone.

HUSBAND AND WIFE MAD.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 7.—Carey Carpenter was taken to the insane hospital at Indianapolis, today, just one week to the day since his wife was placed in the same hospital.

Mrs. Nancy Arnold, New Haven, O., committed suicide by tying a noose to her waist and jumping into a creek. Ill health was the cause.

MAY DISCONTINUE

Issuance of the Government Crop Report

RESULT OF AN INQUIRY

WHICH HAS BEEN MADE INTO COTTON LEAK

Present Investigation Will Likely be Followed by Congressional Action and Crop Reports Apt to be Abolished Altogether.

Washington, July 7.—One result of the cotton leak investigation just completed by the secret service, under direction of the secretary of agriculture will undoubtedly be a vigorous agitation in favor of the discontinuance of all crop reports by the government. It is pointed out that at best the government reports are only estimates and that they are of no real benefit to the farmers of the country. They are of value only to speculators and so many and so great are the temptations thrown about those engaged in collecting and preparing the reports that, despite all precautions it seems impossible to prevent their being "doctored," or least fairly accurate advance information being handed out to a favored few.

This is especially true of the cotton report, which is announced at noon on the third of each month.

The report of Acting Chief Moran of the secret service, on investigation of the charges made by Richard Cheatham, secretary of the Southern Cotton Growers Association is now in the hands of Secretary Wilson. Action will soon be taken thereon. It is expected that at least one official connected with the department in Washington and several agents in southern states will be dismissed. The secret service detectives, who have been working on the case nearly a month, are said to have discovered indisputable evidence that a corrupt ring exists among employees of the department from which Wall Street speculators are able to obtain a close idea of the character of the cotton report several days in advance of its publication. Through their investigation among broker concerns in New York and other large cities they also learned that certain government employees closely connected with the collection and compilation of cotton statistics have been dealing in the cotton market. Even though an employee of the department should not actually give out figures a large order from him to a broker between the first and third of the month to buy or sell cotton would be sufficient hint to the broker as to the nature of the forthcoming report.

The present investigation will probably be followed next winter by a congressional inquiry into the whole subject of government crop reports and the question as to whether it would not be desirable to abolish them altogether.

MAY LEAD TO THE CAPTURE OF OTHERS

Tacoma, Wash., July 7.—Ed Stickney, one of the eight convicts who escaped from the United States penitentiary at McNeil's Island, last Monday, was captured shortly before midnight last night while coming out of Point Defiance Park to meet a friend who was to furnish him with clothing and money. Stickney has been in hiding on Vashon Island, across from the park. United States Marshal Hopkins has information which leads him to believe that a majority of the seven escaped prisoners are on Vashon Island and a large posse will be sent here to day.

Negro Laborers Organize.

Lexington, Ky., July 7.—Negroes are reported to have entered into a combination here and agreed not to work in harvest fields for $1.50 a day, the price offered by farmers. Wheat is going to waste for lack of labor to harvest it. Three negro men known to have refused offers of work in harvest fields were arrested for vagrancy and taken to the workhouse. Farmers are taking steps to procure Swedish labor.

Locomotives Destroyed.

Nashville, Tenn., July 7.—The roundhouses of the Louisville and Nashville railway, together with seven locomotives, were destroyed by fire. Five other locomotives were badly damaged. The loss is about $150,000. The roundhouse was a comparatively new structure.

NIECE OF WADES

HER OWN LAWYER

TO UNCLE SAM

The Ashes of John Paul Jones, Revolutionary Hero, Were Delivered.

Paris, July 7.—The body of John Paul Jones was formally delivered to the United States government, in the presence of the highest dignitaries of France, the diplomatic representatives of several foreign governments, and civil and naval officials of the United States.

Seldom has an event awakened such widespread interest in the French capital. Dense throngs packed the Champs Elysees and other thoroughfares to witness the imposing cortege. The ceremony of delivering the body was held in the American church on the Avenue de L'Alma. At the foot of the chancel rested the casket, wrapped in an American flag, and littered with masses of floral emblems. The French government had taken charge of the arrangements. After religious services General Porter advanced alongside the casket and formally delivered the body to Mr. Loomis as the representative of the United States government, who accepted it in the name of the government and commissioned Admiral Sigbee to transport it to the United States.

MOTHER IN MADHOUSE.

Lynn, Mass., July 7.—Brooding over the fact that her mother had been sent to an insane asylum, Elizabeth Clements, 14 years old, of No. 9 Bedford street, committed suicide during the night. She turned on a gas jet and suffocated.

MIKADO ADDRESSES THE PEACE ENVOYS

Tokyo, July 7.—The emperor delivered an address to the peace plenipotentiaries as follows: "The president of the United States, being grieved to find that the war between Japan and Russia had not been brought to a close after the lapse of more than a year, and being impressed with the urgent need, in the interest of peace and humanity, of terminating the conflict, has suggested that the two governments appoint plenipotentiaries and cause them to meet together to negotiate peace. We were compelled, contrary to our expectations, to resort to arms, despite our constant and abiding wish for peace, and if, in consequence of the conciliatory spirit of our opponent hostilities could be brought to an end, nothing would be more satisfactory than such consummation. Accordingly, we at once accept the suggestion of the president of the United States and we hereby charge you with the mission of negotiating and concluding peace. You should devote yourselves with all of your power to discharge your mission, and make every effort to secure the re-establishment of peace on a durable basis."

Panama Commission's Plans.

Washington, July 7.—Life on the Isthmus of Panama is to be made healthful, comfortable and enjoyable before the real work of digging the canal is begun, according to an announcement of a policy by Chairman Shonts of the Panama canal commission. Mr. Shonts said: "Our first duty is to create sound underlying conditions. This is now vastly more important than the moving of dirt. The men must have suitable houses in healthy surroundings; they must have wholesome and nourishing food at reasonable cost; they must have suitable transportation facilities to get to and from their work, and they must have opportunity for recreation afforded them. It will be the policy of the commission to provide these essentials as quickly as possible and to increase the working force."

BECOMES A JUDGE

One of America's Most Noted Corporation Lawyers

JAMES B. DILL IS NAMED

FOR PLACE ON THE BENCH OF NEW JERSEY

Abandons Law Practice Worth $400,000 a Year to Accept Salary of $3000—Notified Clients He Could No Longer Serve.

New York, July 7.—James B. Dill, one of the foremost corporation lawyers of America, was appointed yesterday by Governor Stokes of New Jersey, a judge of the court of errors and appeals of that state, the home of trusts. He received $400,000 a year from his law practice and surrenders this to become a judge with a salary of $3,000 a year. His last private act was to refuse a retainer of $25,000 offered by an insurance financier.

No personal event of recent times has occasioned so much comment in Wall street as this appointment and its acceptance. Although maintaining his residence in New Jersey, Dill has been considered a New York lawyer. His office is in the heart of the financial region. Many of the great trusts have been his clients and he was the legal father of scores of them. He has been sought in consultation in nearly every financial litigation.

For several years Dill's views on the moral questions involved in high finance have been growing stronger until he felt convinced that he had reached the parting of the ways. He early saw the possible evils that might result from the formation of large industrial combinations and began to sound notes of warning.

For several months Dill has been gradually retiring from practice and business. Within twenty days he placed on file in Albany his resignation as director in ninety-one companies of the state of New York. In New Jersey he has withdrawn from many more corporations. He is today director in only two incorporated concerns, the Commonwealth Trust company of New Jersey, and a radiator manufacturing concern. He has notified clients that he cannot longer serve them. Henceforth his duty is to the state.

On this account the Standard Oil company, the Steel trust and public service corporations filed written protests with the governor and opposed the appointment. Although he has obtained the charters for many large corporations Dill has no financial interest in them. His work has been purely that of counsel. His fees have been enormous. It is said that for adjusting the affairs of the Carnegie company and bringing about an amicable settlement of difficulties between Andrew Carnegie and H. C. Frick he received $1,000,000.

Among the corporation charters secured by Dill were Federal Steel, American Steel and Wire, American Tiptone, Otis Elevator, National Biscuit, National Steel, and the Carnegie company.

SHE TOOK STRYCHNINE.

Chillicothe, O., July 7.—Nettie Larrick, 35, divorced wife of Charles Larrick and mother of five children, committed suicide last evening after returning home from a band concert with a young man. She put strychnine on an apple which she ate in the presence of her family and later told of the poisoning. She died in a short time. Despondency is given as the cause.

HEAVY LIABILITIES.

Hagerstown, Md., July 7.—Charles Duhaime, expert accountant, who examined the failed Commercial bank books, found the assets of the concern to amount to $64,880, liabilities $157,715. Receiver Spokenhiser finds that the liabilities exceed that figure by $12,000. He says that only the high places have been touched so far and the figures may be materially changed.

PETITION FOR ALIMONY FILED

GRACE M. JONES SEEKS EQUITABLE RELIEF AT HANDS OF THE COURT.

George J. McNealy Brings Suit to Set Aside Will of the Late Mary C. McNealy.

Grace M. Jones, by her attorney, S. L. James, has commenced suit in the Probate court against her husband, Charles R. Jones, for alimony. The plaintiff says she was married to the defendant on June 25, 1895. She says no children were born of the marriage, but that in October of 1904, they adopted a child, aged two months, now aged one and a half years. She charges her husband with extreme cruelty. She says the defendant is owner of property in Newark, and that he also holds a policy of $2000 in the Bankers' Life Insurance company, a policy of $2000 in the A. O. U. society and $1000 in the Prudential Insurance company, in all of which she is named as the beneficiary. She says that her husband swears that he will no longer live with her, and declares that he will assign away all of his property and cancel all of his insurance policies, so as to defeat and deprive her of any benefit therefrom, and from securing any alimony, and to deprive her from securing any benefits from the insurance policies in the event that the same matures during her life. She says she believes her husband will carry out his threats and assign and transfer his property, and cancel the insurance policies unless he is enjoined and restrained from doing so.

Plaintiff therefore asks that she be decreed such alimony as the court thinks proper and that the same be decreed to her part in cash, and part in real estate. In the meantime she asks that temporary alimony be allowed her for the maintenance of herself and child, and enough cash to enable her to pay her attorney and expenses in this suit, and that the defendant be enjoined from cancelling any of his policies of insurance, or suffering the same to lapse, and for all other and proper relief.

An injunction as prayed for in the petition was issued by Judge Irwin.

To Set Aside Will.

George J. McNealy has commenced suit in the Common Pleas court against Franklin P. McNealy, Samuel McNealy, Lillian J. McNealy, Nettie Tibbens, George McNealy and Frank P. McNealy as executor of the last will of Mary C. McNealy, to set aside the will of the late Mary C. McNealy. The plaintiff says that on January 7, 1905, Mary C. McNealy, his mother, died, leaving him and the defendants Franklin P. McNealy, Samuel McNealy, Lillian J. McNealy, Nettie Tibbens and George McNealy, her only heirs at law. Plaintiff says that on the 11th day of January, 1905, a paper purporting to be the last will and testament of Mary C. McNealy, bearing date of January 3, 1905, was admitted to probate by the Probate court of Licking county, and letters testamentary thereon were issued to the defendant Franklin P. McNealy, as sole executor of the paper writing, the defendants, Franklin P. McNealy, Lillian J. McNealy, Nettie Tibbens and George McNealy are named as the several legatees of Mary C. McNealy, to whom special bequests were made, after which the remainder of her estate was to be divided between the plaintiff and the defendants.

Plaintiff says that the writing is not the last will of Mary C. McNealy; that Mary C. McNealy at the date of the paper, was not of sound mind and memory, and by reason of extreme age and severe sickness was mentally incapacitated from making a will, or a proper distribution of her property, and was improperly procured to sign the paper by the undue influence procured by the defendant, Franklin P. McNealy, and did not know at the time of signing the will that she was making and signing her last will and testament.

Plaintiff asks that an issue be made up as to whether the paper writing is the last will and testament of Mary C. McNealy, and that the same may be set aside and held for naught, and for such other relief as is proper in the premises. John M. Swartz, attorney for the plaintiff.

Patent Right Case.

The case of C. S. Owens against E. M. Hurt and others, will be taken to the Circuit court by the defendant. The action was brought to recover money paid for the right to sell a patent cement fence post. The verdict of the jury in the Common Pleas court was for the plaintiff, and Hurt now asks that the Circuit court reverse the verdict and judgment for various reasons set forth in his motion for a new trial, among which are: That the verdict is not supported by the evidence, and error in admitting incompetent testimony.

FROM BOXES

Consigned to Carroll & Company, Blackmore Got Goods He Was Peddling.

Coshocton, O., July 7.—A man giving his name as John Blackmore, and claiming to reside in Dennison, was arrested here this morning on the charge of breaking open and robbing freight cars on the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad. When arrested the fellow was engaged in peddling handkerchiefs on the streets that had been stolen from a box of goods consigned to J. J. Carroll, of Newark.

Dragged From Jail and Lynched.

Dumas, Ark., July 7.—A negro man working at a sawmill near Rives, in Drew county, disappeared from his home, and at the same time the 16-year-old daughter of a white man who lived in the same neighborhood was missed. Sheriff James Gould of Pine Bluff was notified and found the man and girl at Tamo. He brought them back on the southbound local, and the negro was met at the depot here by a crowd of men who seemed to be from the vicinity of Rives, bent on trouble. The officers took him, however, and locked him up in the jail. In the morning it was discovered that the jail had been broken open and the negro was found hanging to a telegraph pole half a mile below town. The negro is thought to be Joe Woodman of Rives, Ark.

Japanese Cadetships.

Cadets in the Japanese navy are open to every subject in the empire, as are also commissions in the army and all civil appointments under the government, says the London Chronicle. There is no system of nomination, and the successful candidates are chosen entirely by competitive examination. The naval exploits during the present war have naturally given a strong impetus to the eagerness of high spirited youths to enter a service which has won such glory for their country, and the applications for naval cadetships during the present year already far exceed in number those of any preceding entire year. In one district of the four in which they are received they already amount to over 9,700 as against 3,000 in 1903 and 5,500 in 1904.

Wireless Telegraphy Scheme.

To connect Australia, New Zealand and the outlying islands a far reaching scheme of wireless telegraphy is being considered by the commonwealth authorities.

FIRE ALARMS BY WIRELESS.

Features of Device Invented by Dr. De Forest and B. C. Haldeman.

A wireless fire alarm system is the newest invention of Dr. Lee De Forest, vice president and scientific director of a wireless telegraph company, and B. C. Haldeman, former city electrician and general superintendent in the west for the company, says the Kansas City Times. They are building the apparatus jointly—some of it in St. Louis and some at Kansas City under the direction of Mr. Haldeman. It is to be given its first test in Kansas City during the firemen's convention next August.

Dr. De Forest was at the Midland hotel in Kansas City recently and told something of what the new system is and what it is expected to accomplish. He asserts that it will be 50 per cent cheaper than any system now in use.

"The installation of the system will equip any building with automatic fire alarm signals," he said. "After the manner of the automatic sprinkling system our apparatus will be susceptible to a certain degree of heat. In case of fire the signal will be carried by wire up to the roof of the building and communicated to a flagstaff arrangement. Thence it will be carried through the air, a wireless message, to fire headquarters, where a receiver will be installed, in tune with the transmitter on top of the building.

"A bell will ring first and ring repeatedly to attract the operator's attention in case he hasn't the receiver to his ear. When he listens he will receive the message in a simple signal code of dots and dashes which will tell him the exact location of the fire. The operator will not have to be familiar with the Morse alphabet. A signal code can be used so simple in character that any one can take it. Street boxes can be used in the same manner as far as receiving the alarm is concerned. The message can be transmitted by pulling down a hook or by pushing a button.

"The wireless fire alarm system is Mr. Haldeman's idea. We are perfecting it together in a joint patent. I think it will develop into one of the most important branches of wireless telegraphy."

Dr. De Forest is making experiments with wireless telephone apparatus.

KNUDSON'S PATRIOTISM.

Norwegian Will Have His Breast Tattooed With National Seal.

Knaud Lawrence Knudson, better known as Larry, the wealthiest office building chief janitor of Chicago, will have his breast tattooed with the seal of Norway and the national colors of independence of the country, says the Chicago Post. This is in honor of the final separation of Norway from Sweden, a step which Mr. Knudson has advocated for the last thirty years.

He was at one time a member of the royal navy, has met King Oscar and had many strange adventures in foreign lands. His arms are already tattooed with patriotic Norwegian symbols.

Mr. Knudson said the other morning: "More than half a million Norwegians in the United States are preparing for a general celebration of Norway's final independence. In New York, Boston, Washington, here (Chicago), Omaha, Denver, Minneapolis and other cities on some certain day to be yet determined they will meet and with sagas and cheers celebrate what ought to have happened fifty years ago. Skoll!

"Up to yesterday wherever a Norwegian was he was a Swede. In all the consular service except in one little town in France if you looked for a Norwegian you found a Swede. It got so bad if you turned any corner in Christiania trying to find a Norwegian every scratch you made brought forth a Swede. I have got out of bed nights and walked around to keep cool, it made me so mad to think of it.

"In all history, all mythology, all the doings of things, Norway has always led, but Sweden got the honor. Now we are going to change it, and after this when you dig for a Norwegian you'll find one and not a Swede. Yes, I'm going to have myself tattooed to mark this event forever. I was once tattooed in Japan and again in the Samoan Islands to show my pride of Norway. This, though, is the great joy of my life, that Norway is now Norway. For this I am going to have Norway's insignia on me. There are many expert tattooers in Chicago, but I know how to do it myself. It will require about seven weeks' work."

Prohibited Postal Cards.

Postal cards with certain pictures on them have recently been prohibited in several countries, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. In Russia all cards bearing the portrait of Tolstoi are confiscated and destroyed; in Turkey no card bearing the name of Allah or of Mohammed, the photograph of the caliph or the portrait of a Mohammedan woman is allowed to go through the mail; in Portugal the postal officials have been instructed to destroy any card which is designed to cast ridicule on the king on account of his corpulence.

When You're Sweeter'n In Summer.

When you're sweeter'n in summer, when you hear the thunder roll, Just think about the fellows that are freezin' at the pole! Say this from deck to dawn: "Hope's a joy that's never gone; Just well melt in summer as freeze up later on!"

No use worryin' 'bout weather; it's a do-in' of its best. Though it sets the sky a-blazin' from the wide east to the west. Say this in dark an' dawn: "Weather comes, an' weather's gone; Just well melt in summer as freeze up later on!" —Atlanta Constitution.

JAMES METZNER

Prominent Citizen of Utica, Dies at the Age of Fifty-Five Years.

Utica, O., July 7.—Mr. James Metzner one of the best known residents of this vicinity, died at the home of his sister Mrs. C. S. Hall, of this place, this morning, after an illness of some time with tuberculosis. The deceased was aged about 55 years, and was a single man. For some years he had lived on the farm of the late Felix Harris, but a short time ago was brought to the home of his sister, Mrs. Hall, where he remained until death ensued. At this time no arrangements for the funeral have been made.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Goldsborough wish to express, in this public manner, their most sincere gratitude to the kind people of Newark, Ohio, who mourned with them in their irreparable loss, sustained in the death of their truly noble boy, Thomas Hayward Goldsborough, who now sleeps peacefully in Homewood cemetery, Pittsburgh, Pa. "He will rise again when the last trumpet shall sound."

Berlin, Germany, has erected a huge building resembling a factory, where the unemployed, whole families, are received and provided for. But no one must take advantage of this hospitality more than five times in three months.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON

Contagious Blood Poison more thoroughly poisons the blood than any other disease. Every part of the body is affected when the virus becomes entrenched in the circulation; red eruptions break out on the skin, the mouth and throat ulcerate, glands in the neck and groin swell, the hair falls out, copper-colored spots appear on the body, etc.

I was afflicted with blood poison, and the best doctors did me no good, though I took their treatment faithfully. In fact I seemed to get worse all the while. I took almost every so-called blood remedy, but they did not seem to reach the disease, and had no effect whatever. I was despondent, for it seemed that I would never be cured. At the advice of a friend I then took S. S. S. and began to improve. I continued the medicine, and it cured me completely.

Hamlet, N. C. W. B. NEWMAN.

So highly contagious is this disease that many a life has been ruined by a friendly hand shake or from using the toilet articles of one affected with the poison. To cure this hideous and hateful disease a constitutional remedy is required. S. S. S. goes down to the very root of the trouble and forces out every particle of the virus from the blood and cures the disease permanently. S. S. S. is purely vegetable and drives out the trouble, and no signs of it are ever seen again. Those who have been cured by S. S. S. can feel assured that none of the poison is left in the blood to transmit to innocent offspring. The entire body is built up and the blood made pure, rich and healthy by this great remedy. Book with instructions for home treatment and any medical advice desired will be given free of charge.

Fire Followed Collision.

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—About 30 people were injured, one seriously, in a wreck of the Great Northern west-bound "flyer" at Springbrook, 21 miles east of Williston, N. D. Seven cars were burned by a fire that broke out immediately after the wreck, presumably caused by the explosion of a gas tank under the smoking car. It is miraculous that several of the passengers were not killed, as the train was running at a high rate of speed when it left the rails. According to the official report there was no spreading of the rails, and officers of the road are unable to account for the accident. Mrs. Addie Peters of Columbus, O., was among those hurt.

SUBMARINE FOG SIGNAL

Device to Warn Ocean Liners of Danger.

SUCCESSFUL TEST ON GERMAN SHIP

Man on the Bridge of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse Heard Tinkling of Bells Through the Water For Miles—Three Big German Ships Fitted With the New Apparatus.

A system of submarine signaling which, according to the officers of the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which recently arrived at New York, is destined greatly to minimize the dangers of fog and mist to ocean liners when they are nearing shore has been fitted to the three great North German liners—Kaiser Wilhelm II., Kronprinz Wilhelm and Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse—says the New York Times. The apparatus, which the Kaiser Wilhelm officers declare has proved a complete success, consists of a small tank filled with a special solution of greater density than water, which is attached to the inner skin of the liner's hull and which contains a microphone or transmitter. From the microphone a wire extends to the bridge, where the officer on duty with an ordinary receiver is enabled to hear distinctly submarine bells attached to the hulls of lightships miles away.

Second Officer Rabien of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse discussed this apparatus. Mr. Rabien was on the bridge as the liner left the German shore and again was on duty when the great ship neared the lightships off Nantucket, Fire Island and Sandy Hook.

"Every ship's hull," said Mr. Rabien, "is practically a drum. Sound vibrations in the water travel at four times the speed they do in the air and can be heard for miles whether they be caused by the action of the screws of a steamer or the ringing of a bell.

"For instance, without any special apparatus at all sailors working on the floor of a schooner can detect the sound made by the screws of a liner miles away. Now, the problem of which the apparatus on this ship is the outcome has been to collect these sound waves as they strike the ship's hull and then convey them to the officer of the bridge.

"To do this a small tank—smaller than a man's hat—is attached to the inner side of the skin of the liner. This tank is filled with a chemical solution, denser than water, which contains the microphone. There are two of these tanks on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, both forward, and to each of them is attached a wire which leads directly to the bridge above. At the end of each wire is an ordinary telephone receiver, which, when the liner nears shore and the weather is foggy, the officer on duty keeps constantly to his ears. There is a switch provided by which you can shut off either the starboard or port microphone, and the officer holding the instrument is enabled to hear bells struck beneath the water several miles distant.

"The noises made by the engines of the liner when she is traveling at great speed do not seriously affect the working of the instruments, while when she is in a fog and naturally traveling at a reduced speed this obstacle is practically obliterated, the result being that the officer holding the receiver can judge almost exactly the distance he is from the warning bells. He can also tell exactly the direction from which the sounds come, two advantages that submarine signaling has over wireless telegraphy.

"There is no doubt that in the development and application of this system lies the solution of the problem of navigation in the densest of fogs. By means of a numerical code not only can warning, but information as well, be conveyed with great accuracy. For instance, on the voyage that ended at New York on Tuesday (May 30) I was on the bridge when the Kaiser cleared German waters and again was there as she neared the American mainland. When four miles distant from the mouth of the river Weser I plainly made out the signals conveyed from the lightship there.

"As we neared Nantucket I had the receivers to my ears, and when we were about four miles distant from the lightship off that place I caught the signal sixty-six—six bells, a pause and then six more bells—the Nantucket lightship code signal. When we were about the same distance from the Fire Island light I caught the signal sixty-eight, the code number of that place, and again as we approached Sandy Hook the Sandy Hook code number, fifty-one, rang just as clearly and plainly.

"By the use of this system of submarine bells the whole coast between New York and Boston sends out warnings for miles, and there seems no excuse why the same conditions should not obtain along the coasts of all nations. Another use these bells can be put to, in my mind, is in naval warfare, especially with reference to the approach of submarine torpedo craft. It would be the easiest thing in the world to keep track of their movements, and the danger of their landing a telling blow would be reduced to a minimum. Great Britain, Germany and Italy have taken up the system, which they are installing along their coasts, while in Canada the St. Lawrence is guarded with the bells from the Atlantic to Quebec."

The state of education in Russia may be judged from the fact that there is only one village school for every 12,000 persons.

A Convicted Senator.
(New York World.)
Half a dozen Senators of recent years have earned the distinction of being indicted, but the supreme honor of being convicted still belongs to only one, of Kansas, and Mitchell, of Oregon.
But for the temptation to resort to petty technicalities Quay and Drexler also might have helped to elevate the Senate by their enforced retirement. Courts and juries can never do the work thoroughly so long as thrifty Senators are so modest as to mask their personality under corporation titles in express, railroad, shipping and marble contracts with the government.
Senator Mitchell should look not for contempt but sympathy from fellow Senators. His troubles come largely from being too simple minded. To be sure, he had taken the precaution to have a "wicked partner" in his law practice, but his partner was weak enough to give the game away at a critical time, although the articles of partnership had been substituted. The corporation plan is always safest, as President Roosevelt carefully explained in his late treatise on varieties of guilt.
It is not pleasant to see a man of Senator Mitchell's high office and long public service go to jail. Some persons will bemoan the fact that he has disgraced the Senate by not being acquitted. But is not the tone of the Senate improved by the aid of the Oregon jury? Would it not be better still if the remaining Mitchells who turn office into dollars were condemned at the ballot box before juries become necessary?

Among the Assyriologists.
(Chicago Chronicle.)
The rows and wrangles among archaeologists have long furnished amusement to the laity, and the battle between Rev. Dr. Peters, and Professor Hermann Von Hilprecht of the University of Pennsylvania is quite as diverting as its predecessors.
The fact that a sort of joint high council of archaeologists has solemnly acquitted Professor Von Hilprecht of the malfeasances charged against him by Dr. Peters has in no degree abated the heat and energy of the latter scientist's attack. He still maintains that the Pennsylvania Assyriologist is a lost and abandoned character who forges the writings of gentlemen who have been dead 10,000 years. He continues to hold Professor Von Hilprecht up to archaeological scorn and contempt, while the professor violently protests his innocence.
In the days when the Babylonian empire was in the height of its glory its business and literary records were kept on clay tablets which were baked and have thus preserved for future ages the data from which we can judge of Babylonian civilization. Dolving in the ruins of Nippur, Professor Von Hilprecht declares that he found 60,000 of these tablets. Dr. Peters asserts, in effect, that Professor Von Hilprecht "faked" them, or, rather, that there never was such a library as Professor Von Hilprecht describes.
Both gentlemen have written books on the subject—the professor to demonstrate his discovery of the "Library of Assurbanipal," and the doctor to demonstrate that the library never existed. Other Assyriologists have taken sides and the discussion, like all discussions between learned men, has waxed bitter and personal to the great scandal of all loyal devotees of the ancient science.
The one thing of any general interest in the matter is the undisputed fact that Von Hilprecht and his predecessors have discovered implements, pottery and inscriptions testifying to a high state of civilization at a period far earlier than any that has hitherto been uncovered. These, in turn, point to still earlier civilization, and so on until it is reasonable to infer that what we call civilization, instead of being a comparatively recent phase of human development, is really scores of thousands of years old.
This much, therefore, the archaeologists have done for us. They have shown us that we do not monopolize the wisdom of the ages—that our equals existed so long ago that their very existence has been forgotten. We are, in short, taught to curb our self-satisfaction.
For this, if for no other service, we may excuse the somewhat harsh and unseemly strife among the learned ones. They are finders of truth after all.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.
The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale by all druggists.

AMUSEMENTS
The bill at Idlewild Park theatre was changed Thursday night to the ringing comic opera, Fra Diavolo, by Aubert. The title role was taken by Frank V. French, who so successfully first "Hassan Bey" in Said Pasha, the first part of the week. Lord Albrash was taken exceptionally well by Charles Wallace. Miss Minnie Emmert as Zerlina pleased the audience very much.
A good sized audience witnessed the performance last night and taken as a whole the show is a pleasing one. The Robinson company has been favored by large patronage at every performance so far and it is expected to continue so, as their work deserves it.

In the Vatican library there is a treatise on dragons a manuscript in a single roll 300 feet long and a foot wide.

MITCHELL, NEW BLOT ON SENATE
DECADENCE OF ONCE GREAT BODY EMPHASIZED BY HIS CONVICTION.
He is the Second Senator to be Convicted Late on Criminal Charges.

Washington, July 7.—The conviction of Senator John H. Mitchell of Oregon, or John M. Hipple, as he was known in Pennsylvania before he went West to become a political power, following so closely on the conviction of Senator Burton of Kansas, on similar charges, has emphasized the decadence of the United States Senate. Within the past few years the exalted reputation of "the greatest deliberative body in the world" has been dragged in the mire by some of its members through their conviction on criminal charges or in other ways.
Fortunately a decided majority of the Senate, on both sides of the chamber, still is composed of men of high character, and among them there is a strong and deep-seated resentment against their fellows who have brought the Senate to disrepute, when for a hundred years it was composed, according to popular belief at least, of men of the highest order of integrity and ability.
They ostracized Senator Burton from the moment of his conviction and it is certain that to Senator Mitchell will be given the same treatment for he has less sympathy among his colleagues than had Burton. At the same time there are men still in the Senate who have done almost as much as Burton and Mitchell toward shattering its most cherished traditions who have not been ostracized. The excuse for them is that their offenses were not criminal and that they created less notoriety and attracted much less of public condemnation.
Senator Mitchell formed a law partnership, and the firm did considerable business before the Government departments. Charges were made that Senator Mitchell had received money for this practice, and for using his influence as a Senator to bring about results favorable to his clients. It was charged that money was paid to him in his committee room at the Capitol. These charges were denied, but the Senator's law partner testified that Senator Mitchell did receive financial benefits from this law business, which is a criminal offense.

This is not the first time that Mr. Mitchell has disgraced the Senate. A year ago, after drinking too much wine at a dinner party, he entered the home of an army officer during the absence of the latter, and frightened the ladies of the household. The police were called in and the Senator was arrested. Friends interceded, and he was released without prosecution.
Senator Burton of Kansas, was convicted of accepting fees from a turf exchange, of St. Louis, as its legal representative and for "protection," which he promised to give by virtue of his position as a United States Senator. Burton confessed on the stand that he had accepted the money and made the plea that he needed the money. He was convicted, but the United States Supreme court set aside the verdict. He will be tried again on the same charge.
Senator Dietrich was charged with accepting a monetary consideration for the appointment of a postmaster in his State. Senator Dietrich set up for the defense that his enemies had trumped up the charges and that he was not guilty. He was acquitted, and he demanded an investigation by the Senate. This was made and to Dietrich was given a clean bill of health, but the finding was not accepted by the people of Nebraska, who have elected another man in his place.

FEW FORECLOSURE SALES OF RAILWAYS
Milage Involved However, Was Greater Than During the Year 1904.
Foreclosure sales of railroads in the United States during the first six months of the present year numbered only three, according to statistics which will appear in the current number of the Railway Age. The mileage involved was larger than for three years preceding, Ohio furnishing the largest road, which increased the total—the Detroit Southern. It was 392 miles long, bonds $8,700,000, stock $17,000,000. The others were Queen Anne's railroad, 78 miles long, and the Farmville and Powhattan, narrow gauge, 28 miles long.
The Detroit Southern was the reorganization in 1901 of the Ohio Southern and the Detroit and Lima Northern railroads, and, in turn, has been reorganized as the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton. The new company has acquired the Ann Arbor railroad, owning nearly 300 miles of road terminating on Lake Michigan and Lake Erie, and has made a traffic agreement with the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton, so that it starts on its new career as an important system.
Thus far in the year only five small railway companies, aggregating 270 miles of lines, have been placed in the hands of receivers, and none of them can attribute their insolvency to then existing business conditions. The largest, the Ohio River and Western, is the successor of the Bellaire, Zanesville and Cincinnati, a narrow gauge road which had long been in the hands of receivers, was reorganized in 1902 and widened to standard gauge, and was to have been converted into an electric road and made part of the Appleyard electric railway system in Ohio. The project failed and the road must again go through the process of reorganization. Of the other insolvent properties, one is a 29-mile road of the exceptional gauge of 2 feet, in Maine; another is a narrow gauge with 21 miles of track, built by a Texas lumber company, and the last represents a few miles of track in the State of Washington, the commencement of an undertaking of some importance which failed to materialize further.

The total mileage of the five roads was 270; bonds, $13,250,000; stocks, $6,510,000. This is a showing even better than that for the corresponding six months of 1904, when six roads, with 392 miles of lines and $10,514,000 of bonds and stocks, went into receivers' hands.

LEAVES COSHOCTON
James B. Buxton, who moved here from Newark a month ago, as part owner of the Central grocery, will in a few days move his family to Mt. There is every promise that Mr. Buxton has made a deal that will establish him in a very profitable business in the thriving county seat of Knox county, but we regret that he does not continue to live and do business in Coshocton.—Coshocton Democrat and Standard.

KEEPS TRACK OF
HIS OLD PUPILS
JOHN WASHBURN, WHO TAUGHT
SCHOOL IN LICKING FIFTY
YEARS AGO.
Furnishes Interesting List of Names of Those Who Were Once Instructed by Him.

Mr. John Washburn, a former resident of Licking county, who has been visiting among old friends in Newark and Granville, has furnished the Advocate with three lists of names of persons attending his schools over fifty years ago. The list is very interesting from the fact that many of these persons are now living and are still residing in Licking or adjoining counties.
Mr. Washburn has kept a very accurate account of the pupils who were in his charge so long ago. The list which was handed to the reporter is very complete in its details. After the name of each pupil appears his or her age. In addition to this, a mark is made which shows whether the person is known to be living or dead. In the list as published, those who are known to be dead are designated by the letter "d" following their names.
Mr. Washburn is quite anxious to keep his list of names up to date and would appreciate any information which any one can give him about the location of his former pupils.
He is now a well to do merchant in Decatur, Ill., where any communication can be mailed. Mr. Washburn has been visiting for several days at the home of Mrs. Hiram Partridge at Granville.

The following list contains the names of the pupils who attended school commencing December 6, 1852, at the school house in Newton township. John Washburn was then the teacher of the school:
Enoch Wilson, Elias Warman, John Warman, Elias Vangunsling, D. George Vanatta, Samuel Vanatta, Aaron Vanatta, D. William Wilson, Joseph Evans, Alfred Rhoades, Loyal Clouse, Jacob Frederick, Abner Clouse, Isaac Williams, D. David Blime, George Riddle, Samuel Riddle, D. William Shultz, D. Thomas J. Blime, Andrew J. Blime, William Evans, Joseph Clouse, John Vanatta, D. Samuel Bowly, D. Jerome Vanatta, William Vanatta, Jacob Blime, Thomas Wilson, Jane Vanatta, D. KEEPS TRACK OF
JOHN WASHBURN, WHO TAUGHT
SCHOOL IN LICKING FIFTY YEARS AGO.
Furnishes Interesting List of Names of Those Who Were Once Instructed by Him.

Mr. John Washburn, a former resident of Licking county, who has been visiting among old friends in Newark and Granville, has furnished the Advocate with three lists of names of persons attending his schools over fifty years ago. The list is very interesting from the fact that many of these persons are now living and are still residing in Licking or adjoining counties.
Mr. Washburn has kept a very accurate account of the pupils who were in his charge so long ago. The list which was handed to the reporter is very complete in its details. After the name of each pupil appears his or her age. In addition to this, a mark is made which shows whether the person is known to be living or dead. In the list as published, those who are known to be dead are designated by the letter "d" following their names.
Mr. Washburn is quite anxious to keep his list of names up to date and would appreciate any information which any one can give him about the location of his former pupils.
He is now a well to do merchant in Decatur, Ill., where any communication can be mailed. Mr. Washburn has been visiting for several days at the home of Mrs. Hiram Partridge at Granville.

The following list contains the names of the pupils who attended school commencing December 6, 1852, at the school house in Newton township. John Washburn was then the teacher of the school:

BRIDE STOLE COIN FROM HER HUSBAND

Evansville, Ind., July 7.—Mrs. Carrie Westner, aged 21, was arrested here yesterday morning by Detectives Herger and Houghland, charged with stealing $1,000 from her husband at Peoria, Ill. John Bourglund, with whom it is alleged she eloped, was also taken into custody, and the two will be returned to Peoria provided requisition papers are secured.

It is alleged that Mrs. Westner came to this city about six weeks ago; that she has been married less than a year, and that she left her husband one month after the marriage. It is said the woman confessed to the police that she took the money, "but a wife cannot be convicted for taking money from her husband," she said. "What is his mine, and what is his wife's is his." Mrs. Westner is a pretty woman.

JEWS BARRED TEMPORARILY

WILL HAVE NO VOICE IN THE SELECTION OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Women Will be Permitted to Vote by Proxy—Serious Anti-Saloon Agitation.

St. Petersburg, July 7.—The Novosti prints what it claims is the actual text of the original draft of Minister of the Interior Boulignin's project for the formation of a representative assembly. The question of election of members to the lower house of the legislative assembly is settled, not on the basis of property, but on that of universal suffrage of men and women the latter voting by proxy. The classes absolutely debarred are: Jews, the nomadic races, persons not of Russian nationality, governors and other imperial and local administrators, and all persons connected with the police. It is provided that the disability of the Jews shall only continue until their status shall have been defined by the popular assembly. Persons convicted of crime, etc., are also deprived of suffrage. The emperor possesses the right of absolute veto.

Advices received by Minister of Interior Boulignin report a serious anti-Semitic agitation in the governments of Ekaterinoslav and Kherson. According to dispatches from Odessa the president of the permanent lawyers' association has been given by the authorities notice to leave the city within 15 days. The dispatches also say that the insurance capital is refusing to pay the losses by fire in the port during the disturbances. No report has been received from Theodosia of the arrival of the squadron from Sevastopol, and it is not known whether an encounter with the Kriaz Potemkin has taken place or whether the battleship has executed its threat to bombard the city unless furnished with the supply of coal it demanded. The latest dispatches from Theodosia received here reported that the Kriaz Potemkin was cruising off shore in sight of the town, but it is possible she may have left that vicinity before the arrival of the squadron.

Japanese Again Defeated. St. Petersburg, July 7.—General Linewitch, in a telegram to the emperor dated July 5, and confirming the defeat of the Japanese at Sanyatse, when a Japanese battalion was annihilated, says that after the capture of the position and the flight of the Japanese the latter were reinforced and resumed the fight but all their attacks were repulsed. The Russians captured a considerable quantity of supplies and held the position until ordered to retire. The Japanese losses General Linewitch said were enormous. Many Russians were wounded in such a manner as to prove that the Japanese were using dum dum bullets.

Shaffer of Pennsylvania; first vice president, William Maxwell of New York city; second vice president, Miss N. Cropley of Indiana; third vice president, J. H. NEWS OF OHIO

Freight Wrecked. Hillsboro, O., July 7.—The local Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern freight was wrecked at Russell, seven miles west of Hillsboro, killing J. A. Sweeney of Athens, fireman, and injuring four others of the crew. The train broke in two coming down the grade west of Russell and four cars fell behind. In ignorance of this, the engineer stopped for water and Fireman Sweeney was out on the tender to make the connection when the detached cars crashed into the train. Sweeney was knocked off, falling between the engine and first car. He was cut in two. All of the crew were injured. Three freight cars and the caboose were wrecked.

Liquor Men's Announcement. Columbus, O., July 7.—The announcement was made at the conclusion of a joint meeting of the executive boards of the Ohio Brewers' association, the Ohio State Liquor league and the Wine and Spirit association, held in this city, that the liquor interest is to keep out of politics this campaign. Further, a general plan has been adopted looking toward the elevation of the saloon business in Ohio "to an equal basis with all other business." This, the liquor men say, contemplates the abolishment of all disreputable places conducted under the guise of saloons.

Tramps on a Train. Marion, O., July 7.—The trainmen of Big Four westbound passenger train No. 29 and a small army of tramps had a desperate battle between here and Gallon, O. The trainmen tried to put the tramps off at Gallon, but unsuccessfully. Several stops were made between Gallon and here, but the tramps, who were armed with stones and clubs, could not be dislodged. Assistance was telegraphed for at this point, and when the train arrived a squad of police ousted the tramps from the train.

Embezzlement Charged. Toledo, O., July 7.—Secretary Charles H. Durian, clerk of the board of public safety, was arrested at McLary's Point, just across the state line, by Detectives Williams and Carlew, on a warrant sworn out by President Kniesly of the board, charging embezzlement of $50,000. Durian is down with nervous prostration and cannot be removed.

Engineer Killed. Glouster, O., July 7.—Joseph Holliday, engineer on a Zanesville and Western yard engine, was killed when Kanawha and Michigan passenger train No. 4 ran into his engine near here. Just before the crash the engineer and the firemen of each engine jumped. Holliday fell into the shallow gutter, the tender of his engine falling on him.

Ate Toadstools. Warren, O., July 7.—William Jones and George Parker, residents of Niles, O., are in a serious condition, the result of eating toadstools in mistake for mushrooms. Parker has become a raving maniac, and the lives of both are despaired of. The men were members of a camping party along the Mahoning river.

Car Jumped the Track. Cincinnati, O., July 7.—An Avondale line car jumped the track and killed Stephen Sacco, an Italian, who was passing on a bicycle. The car also struck a wagon and killed two horses. The motorman, conductor and the passenger on the car escaped without injury.

Factory Fire. Urbana, O., July 7.—Fire destroyed factory No. 2 of the Barlow-Kent Furniture company here. The plant is a total loss, amounting to $50,000, and partially covered by insurance. Incendiarism is believed to be the cause of the fire.

Picked Up Live Wire. Dennison, O., July 7.—Bennie Shields, 10, died from burns received from a live electric wire which he innocently picked up while fishing along Little Stillwater creek. The flesh fell from his bones.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.

Child Not Expected to Live From One Hour to Another, but Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Ruth, the little daughter of E. N. Doney of Agnesville, Va., was seriously ill of cholera infantum last summer. "We gave her up and did not expect her to live from one hour to another," he says. "I happened to think of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and got a bottle of it from the store. In five hours I saw a change for the better. We kept on giving it and before she had taken the half of one small bottle she was well." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

BAR TO GOOD GOVERNMENT

SAYS E. S. BOARDMAN IN AN INTERVIEW ON THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

Declares Its Maintenance by the United States is Inconsistent and Absurd.

New York, July 7.—The Monroe doctrine comes in for some hard knocks at the hands of Edward S. Boardman, a prominent rancher and cattle dealer of Quito, Ecuador, who is now in this city on a business trip. Mr. Boardman, who is a native of Great Britain and lived in America six years before going to Ecuador, where he has lived for 30 years, said today:

"If you wanted South America, and meant to have it sooner or later, there would be some sense in the Monroe doctrine. It would be a notification to Europe that you had pre-empted South America and staked out a claim that covered the whole of it, from the isthmus to the cape. But you say you don't want it, and would not take it for a gift. You couldn't undertake to govern a whole continent full of Spanish mongrels and wild Indians, anyhow. The job would bankrupt you in next to no time.

"But you do say that no other nation shall have a slice of South America, and you can't give any reason for saying so, except that President Monroe said something of the kind pretty near a hundred years ago, and you have heard it repeated so often that now you believe in it.

"What the Monroe doctrine really means is that the United States is resolved that no South American state shall have a decent government, and that the whole continent shall be wasted on a lot of miserable mongrels. The South American republics cheat their creditors and fight among themselves, and that is all they amount to.

"The continent is one of the richest in the world, and if it were properly governed would support the whole of the United States and a good part of Europe, too.

"If there were any consistency in such a ridiculous doctrine the United States ought not to lose an hour in driving France and Holland and England out of Guiana. Each has a small piece of territory in Guiana, and if it were not for the climate, which is unhealthy, those little colonies would be the most prosperous parts of South America, for they never borrow money and cheat their creditors. But they are flagrant examples of the foolishness and dishonesty of the Monroe doctrine. What is the use of saying that no European nation shall ever acquire any territory in this Western hemisphere, when all the time France and England and Holland have acquired territory there and mean to keep it, and if the Monroe doctrine is a great and good thing why don't you put it in force up here in the north and drive England out of Canada?"

LEFT HIS ESTATE TO THE UNIVERSITY

Columbus, O., July 7.—From one to whom the late J. McLaughlin Smith of Dayton, confided all his plans, it was learned, Thursday, that the capitalist had left practically his entire estate of some $200,000 to the Ohio State University. The will has not yet been read in the probate court at Dayton, but it is practically assured that the university will get something like a quarter of a million.

It is understood that no provision is made for the matter in which the money is to be used, but since the late Mr. Smith was deeply interested in the work of the agricultural department, it is supposed that the money will be put to some purpose in that department. A building named for the donor of the money, may be erected.

Manager Lajoie's left foot became so painful that Dr. M. H. Castle decided to operate upon it and the patient was placed under the influence of chloroform and the operation performed. Dr. Castle says that Larry will not be able to get out of bed for a week at least and may not be able to play for three weeks.

Dan Riley, who has played in center garden with Mt. Vernon all season, left Thursday for Terre Haute, Ind., to join the Ft. Wayne team. Riley is a good outfielder and a strong hitter, home runs having been very common with him all season.

portant places, are held secretary of legation at Paris, secretary of legation and charge d'affaires at Vienna and secretary of legation at Madrid. The second period began in 1873, when Hay was made first assistant secretary of state, which place was held until a change of administration in 1881. In that year the young diplomat held the important and honorable position of president of the international sanitary conference. The third period began in 1897, when one of the first acts of President McKinley was to nominate Mr. Hay as ambassador to Great Britain, from which position he was called a little over a year later to go to the head of the state department, where he remained till his death, a few days ago. While at London such a comparatively short time, Hay became both in the American and English public mind as the most conspicuous of the long list of brilliant men who have held the position of secretary of state at the court of St. James.

Friend of Lincoln.

Diplomacy, however, was not the only field in which John Hay shone. Politics, war, journalism and literature each furnished some of the laurels interwoven in the wreath of his fame. He was one of the private secretaries of President Lincoln and was in peculiarly close and intimate relations with the great emancipator. He was the favorite editorial writer of Horace Greeley on the New York Tribune. He was the author of poems and prose sketches and historical read with interest and delight on two continents. To gain confidential information for Abraham Lincoln he was adjutant general to two or three commanders in the civil war, being promoted to the rank of colonel. In addition to all his other accomplishments he was an orator of power and scholarly finish, two of his most noteworthy efforts having been an address on Walter Scott and the memorial oration on the death of William McKinley, delivered in the hall of representatives in Washington.

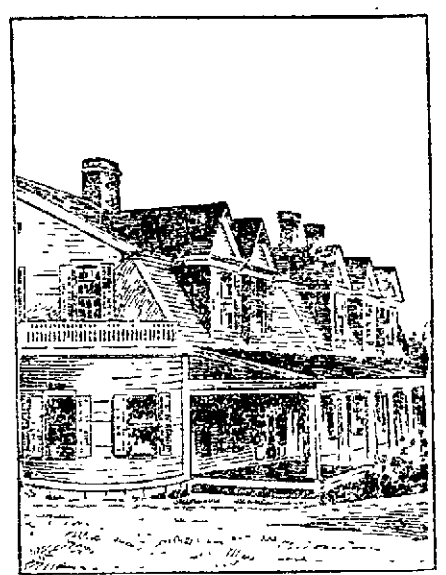

The Ohio society of New York once gave Hay a dinner, for among his other titles of distinction the great secretary lived several years in Ohio. In that talk he bewailed the fact that he was a man without a state. "I was born in Indiana," he said, "I grew up in Illinois, I was educated in Rhode Island, and it is no blame to that scholarly community that I know so little. I learned my law in Springfield and my politics in Washington, my diplomacy in Europe, Asia and Africa. I have a firm hands and as promptly threw the contents over his shoulders. After that he was permitted to wash his mother's dishes in peace.

The education was pursued at an academy in Springfield and finished at Brown university at the age of twenty. Mr. Hay afterward took a degree of A. M. and was given LL. D.'s from various institutions all over the country. It is hard for a man of fame to escape the LL. D.-ing process.

A Popular Boy in College.

One of Hay's college mates describes him as a rosy checked youngster, the best writer and most popular boy in the university, usually shunshy, but occasionally attacked by the blues, when he handed out verbal vitriol to friends and foe alike. Even then his caustic wit was in evidence, and the other boys learned to leave him alone.

MR. HAY'S COUNTRY HOME AT NEWBURY, N. H., WHERE HE DIED.

on his off days, which fortunately were not frequent. He had a prodigious memory, a fact of which he was not proud. He was proud of his essays, however, and memorized nearly all of them. He wrote verse then, but not of the "Jim Bludso" variety. That came later.

Returning to Springfield, young Hay studied law and was admitted to the bar. In the campaign of 1860 he stumped the state for Lincoln. Upon his election the great war president made Hay his assistant private secretary. It was during the dark days of the conflict that the young man wrote his famous poem, "Little Breeches," an effort that he did not appreciate at the time and which he has never rated at its true worth since. To cheer the president in one of the blackest hours of the war Hay wrote the verses to him, and Lincoln liked it so well that he insisted on its publication. As a consequence the assistant private secretary awoke one morning, like Byron, to find himself famous.

The Advent of "Jim Bludso."

It was not until 1871, however, that "Pike County Ballads," containing "Little Breeches," "Jim Bludso," "Lanty Tim" and other famous dialect poems, appeared. In later life Hay tried to forget that he had written these, but the public would not have it. Others delighted to remember these rough verses, so full of human nature, humor and pathos, even though their author did not. A distinguished Englishman once said that "Jim Bludso," he who would "hold her nozzle agin in the bank till the last galoot's ashore," was one of the most popular poems in England.

It was also in 1871 that "Castilian Days" came out, which Horace Greeley declared the best book of travel he had ever read. A year later appeared Hay's translation of "Castellar's Democracy in Europe." It was not till 1890, however, that Hay's most famous book, "Abraham Lincoln: A History," was published, and the same year came a later edition of his poems. John G. Nicolay, Lincoln's other secretary, collaborated with Hay in the life of their great chief, Nicolay gathering the material and Hay writing the book.

Editor of the New York Tribune.

It was in 1870 that Mr. Hay became an editorial writer on the Tribune, a place he held for many years. It was here he began his lifelong friendship with Whitelaw Reid. The two men have many points in common, not the least of which is that both married rich wives. While Reid was in Europe for several months Hay was editor in chief of the Tribune. John Russell Young described that time and said that while Reid had used whips on his political enemies Hay used scorpions, so that there was a sigh of relief in certain circles when Reid returned "and the young lion (Hay) was vouchsafed the joyful transmission of the jungles."

It was Reid who introduced Hay into New York society, and one of the match makers of the metropolis decided that the young author and diplomat-Hay was then thirty-six—was too eligible a bachelor to go unmarried, so she introduced him to Clara Stone, the daughter of a Cleveland millionaire, whom he married in 1874.

Colonel Hay's house in Washington is a rather modest appearance on the outside, but within it is artistic and beautiful. The great diplomat's chief aim was to gather cartoons made of himself, and one of the rooms of his house is plastered with them. One of the choicest parts of his collection consists of the cartoons made by the famous Du Maurier, the author of "Trilby."

In manner Secretary Hay was suave, polished and courtly. He never lacked in vigor, however, and often startled the diplomats of Europe by the originality of his moves. He did not believe in the indirect methods of old time diplomacy and pushed matters to a conclusion. He spoke many languages, and his grasp of affairs was truly world wide.

OVER THE OREGON TRAIL

How Ezra Meeker Will Travel From Portland to Iowa.

NOVEL TRIP IN PRAIRIE SCHOONER

Pioneer Who Crossed the Continent Half a Century Ago Will Return by the Same Route—His Outfit Is Nearly Like the One He Had Then—Will Take Careful Notes.

"Gee, Twist! Come on, Stub! Git up!" cried Ezra Meeker, pioneer, his feet and good old fashioned cotton shoes as he touched his creak with a switch and turned the team into one of the gates of the Lewis and Clark exposition, writes the Portland (Ore.) correspondent of the Boston Herald. Mr. Meeker is on his way back east, but he seems the Pullman; he proposes to travel the entire distance to Iowa along the old ox wagon trail over which he came to the Oregon country fifty-three years ago.

His outfit is as nearly as possible an exact reproduction of the one in which he and his young bride made the trip across the plains in 1832. There is a "prairie schooner," a bar bucket and all, and a dog running underneath the rear axle which probably is a direct descendant of the Iowa dog that trotted all the way to Oregon in the pioneer days. The oxen, Stub and Twist, are pretty much like Buck and Dandy. Mr. Meeker's 1832 team, though the pioneer says they are not quite such a good team.

Ezra Meeker is now seventy-five years old. His wife of the pioneer days is still living. Meeker is a man of mark in his own country, which is the state of Washington. He lives near Tacoma, the metropolis of Pierce county, in which county he used to be the leading citizen because of his wealth. He is going back to Iowa this summer along the old Oregon trail, not because he wants to get back east, but because he desires to retrace the trail and live over again the experiences of a highly romantic, though strenuous and painful, era in American history and because he wants to write another book.

Ezra Meeker today is a sturdy old gentleman, with bushy white hair and a gray beard. He is a small man, light of build, and he wears overalls and a soft hat. His manner is unostentatious, and his courtesy is of the old time kind. He tells his story modestly.

Though Mr. Meeker does not say so, others say that the little old man was one of the few white men in the early days who won the Indians' confidence, and that this enabled him to employ them in his hop fields to such profit that when the hop lice pest wiped out his earning, in the early nineties he had raised for the export trade hops that had brought him $500,000. It was of the early days that Mr. Meeker talked as he sat on a cracker box in his tent.

"I was reared in Indianapolis and was married there in 1831," he said. "Shortly after our marriage my wife and I started west in search of land. We spent the winter at Edgelyville, Ia., and the winter was so cold that we decided to move to Oregon, so we started in the spring of 1832 with the same sort of an outfit as I have with me now. We reached Portland in the fall and spent the winter there, and in the spring we moved on to Pierce county, Wash., where I have lived ever since. I guess that's about all."

And yet Ezra Meeker has written a big book of more than 500 pages which he calls "Pioneer Reminiscences of Puget Sound—the Tragedy of Leschi." The book contains a host of incidents which portray vividly the life of the time, and the mention of it recalled one of them to the author as he sat in his pioneer camp amid the splendors of 1905 and the exposition.

"I saw in a paper awhile ago," he said, "that the number of people who passed over the Oregon trail in 1832 and 1833 was 2,500. Now, you know, that can't be true. The estimate is far too low. The trail was blocked a good part of the way with outfits, and the suffering was awful, but there must have been at least 25,000 who got through."

"You know a cholera broke out among the emigrants, and there were hundreds who died from it. At one place we counted fifty-one graves, all made within a week. Our party escaped the cholera and got through without losing an animal or a piece of baggage."

"I remember how glad we were when we reached the Dalles of the Columbia, for we thought that then our troubles were ended. We piled all our baggage on a big flatboat, and there was hardly any room for passengers, but we sat atop of the baggage and were happy. One day as we were going through a gorge with the mountains rising high on both sides, some one started sneezing softly. 'Hoo! Sweet Hoo!' Others took up the song, and a singing one verse. Then we started to sneeze, but at the close of the second verse every one stopped suddenly and all cried like hoarse, every one of us."

Mr. Meeker expects to continue his journey some time this month and think he can find Omaha before cold weather sets in. He has with him a hired man who takes care of the oxen, and a photographer to take pictures of the landmarks, with their wives to do the cooking. Mr. Meeker intends to take careful notes of the trail and to follow it more closely than any other pioneer. He says that he will transmit every one of the hundred drawings he has made or written on Independence rock, the most famous landmark of the trail.

HOW TOGO WON.

Incidents That Contributed to His Victory in the Sea of Japan.

While the outcome of the naval battle in the sea of Japan was quickly made known by cables, the curiosity of naval experts as to the means by which a victory so unexpectedly decisive was brought about remained for weeks unsatisfied, says Harper's Weekly. Not until June 10 was some light upon the details of the engagement obtained through Tokyo newspapers, copies of which then reached Victoria, B. C.

It appears that soon after the firing began many of the Russian seamen and gunners became panic stricken. Two gun crews on the Dmitri Donskoi mutinied when the presence of the enemy was suspected, and men on other ships could only keep them at work by threatening to shoot them down.

The assumption that a battleship cannot be sunk by gun fire was exploded. It is now undisputed that the Osabara and Souveroff were sunk by Japanese guns. The fact may be attributed to armor plates of inferior quality, but another plausible explanation is that these vessels owed their fate to the heavy sea running at the time. The Japanese had long been practiced in firing under such conditions, and when the Russian battleships were rolling and exposing unprotected parts Togo's gunners scored many hits.

Much credit for the result is ascribed by Russian survivors to the Japanese torpedo craft. Of the three torpedo boats lost by Togo, one, it seems, was disabled when only 400 yards distant from a Russian battleship, whereupon another torpedo boat darted in and took off the former's crew while she was in a sinking condition.

The report that submarines purchased in the United States were used by the Japanese has been more than once denied, but on June 2 the censors permitted the Japan Advertiser to state that the Japanese did avail themselves of submarines in the "trait of Tushima" and that these vessels greatly contributed to the early rout of the Russians.

SHALL WE LIVE FOREVER?

Chicagoan Tells How Scientific Diet Will Mean Everlasting Life.

Everlasting life will come to man in body as well as in soul as soon as physiologists determine a scientific diet for him, says a Chicago dispatch. Such, in condensed form, is the opinion of Professor Albert P. Matthews of the University of Chicago, who is devoting his work to the creation of artificial life along the lines laid down by his former colleague, Jacques Loeb.

In an article on "What Is Death?" in the July number of The World-Today Professor Matthews says:

"What happens in the body at death? In the first place, there is no definite moment of death. We are all gradually dying for years. The moment which is ordinarily ascribed to death is when breathing stops, but this is purely arbitrary and the survival of an old belief that life was drawn in in the breath and the soul passed out with the breath."

All causes of natural death, he urges, will be renewed by the new system of dietetics now being worked out, where, in the exact chemical needs of the body will be supplied in due proportions.

Anecdote of New Secretary of Navy.

A writer in Harper's Weekly relates an interesting anecdote of Charles J. Bonaparte, the new secretary of the navy. It appears that during Mr. Bonaparte's connection with the Baltimore Reform League it was decided to investigate the conduct of a prominent federal officeholder. Friends of the crooked official learned this and resolved to "pack" the council so that the report might be voted down. Mr. Bonaparte listened attentively to the arguments against the report and then rose to give his own views, bitterly attacking the official, and urging that the changes be immediately accepted. He saw, however, that his words would have little effect on that portion of his audience which sided with the accused man, so, when he had finished his discourse, he began over again, repeating his speech, word for word, pause for pause, gesture for gesture, not once, but a dozen times—until toward morning the friends of the accused official were fast asleep. Mr. Bonaparte and his associates then approved and adopted the report.

Relics of the Old Virginia.

Three pieces of iron sheathing and one gun from the famous Confederate ironclad Virginia recently lay on the Roanoke pier at Norfolk, Va., having been dug up off Lambert's point by a land machine. The old smoothbore and sheathing, which is several inches thick, are now the property of a junk dealer. The land machine which is engaged in deepening the harbor scooped up the relics, which are famous. The iron sheathings, which were explained by a marine, covered the sloping sides of the famous vessel are about fifteen feet in length. The gun is about three feet in length, and the water has apparently made no impression on the weapon.

Naming the Farm.

Why don't more of the farmers name their farms? It ought to be done, says the Farmer and Gardener. The lettering is done in cement and laid in the soil on a slope of the yard. It shows up beautifully even on moonlight nights. Something similar could also be done in flower-beds with little work.

WEATHER FORECASTING

Fallacies of Long Range System Denounced by Experts.

EFFORTS TO SOLVE THE PROBLEM

Value of Foreknowing the Seasons So Important and So Pressing That the Weather Bureau's Chief Is Building and Equipping a Large Observatory for the Study of Intricate Atmospheric Problems.

The infinite desirability of foreknowing the seasons for the benefit of his handiwork is at once the opportunity of agriculturists and the justification of national weather services. It is axiomatic to the deity the methods of impostors or to brand them as liars. The court of final resort must always be a comparison of results, and such comparison every one can now make for himself. Weather maps showing the actual conditions on every day are now published by practically every civilized nation and are accessible to all, and all that is needed to give the most implicit belief in almanac predictions is an honest comparison of these predictions for a single season with the actual occurrences as shown by these maps. Conspicuous instances of failure, such as those of the artificial rain makers, who a decade ago were given the full opportunity to test and exploit their theories, or the colorful results of the extensive campaign of bombardment as a protection against hail, which has long been conducted in southern Europe, do not convince the credulous.

Government meteorologists are not alone in the denunciation of the fallacies, absurdities and pernicious efforts of so called long range forecasts. Professor Young, probably the foremost American astronomer, speaking of lunar influences, points out that the frequency of the moon's changes is so great that it is always easy to find instances by which to verify a belief that changes of the moon control conditions on the earth. A change of the moon necessarily occurs about once a week. All changes of the weather must, therefore, occur within three and three-fourths days of a change of the moon, and one-half of all changes ought to occur within forty-six hours of a change in the moon even if there were no causal connection whatever. Now, it requires only a very slight predisposition in favor of a belief in the effectiveness of the moon's changes to make one forget a few of the changes that occur too far from the proper time.

Unquestionably there is a general desire for an extension of the range of forecasts to cover the near future and, if possible, the coming season.

Some of the ablest scientists of the United States and Europe have devoted much time and labor to the study of this problem. They have consulted weather records of all countries, taking note of the dates of heavy storms and making comparison with the position of the moon and planets to determine if there is any discoverable connection between the movement of those bodies and the onset of storm eddies in the earth's atmosphere. The consensus of opinion has been that there is no foundation of fact or philosophy for that system of long range forecasts.

Students in the primary class in meteorology learn that the ever changing phenomena of the weather are all referable to the action of the sun upon the earth and its atmosphere, vapors and gases; that the constantly radiated energy of the sun supports heat, light and electric force in the solar system.

The libraries of the United States weather bureau contain the substance and much of the detail of all that is known of weather wisdom, ancient and modern, and the scientists of this bureau certainly are familiar with the essence of this knowledge. Those who are in a position to know are well aware that every possible effort is being made to extend our knowledge of the laws that control weather conditions and meanwhile to give to those who are vitally concerned the most trustworthy information obtainable. It is a matter of common experience that the notable success of some commercial article of merit is sure to find the market with spurious goods of the same class, which unscrupulous vendors spread before the indiscriminating public. The rapid strides of the United States weather bureau in recent years toward popular favor through the widespread dissemination of the forecasts—a service made possible largely by the phenomenal spread of the telephone and the development of the rural delivery service—have apparently given a new impetus to the scientific, not to say unscientific, forecasts, based upon some theory of cycles or of planetary control.

The problem of seasonal forecasts is receiving at the hands of the old and most painstaking scientists a combination of a comprehensive consideration that is certain to be fruitful and far-reaching in its ultimate results.

So important and so pressing is the work of the weather bureau that it is the chief of the weather bureau is building and equipping a large observatory, which in the best location available will soon be employed to study the intricate and profound processes of the atmosphere, whose solution is of course of the most important nature and results in forecasting and may lead in time to seasonal predictions on a truly scientific basis.

THE LATE JOHN HAY.

ard Olney, John Sherman and others almost as illustrious have shone in this place.

Giant of Giants in Statecraft.

To say that a man is the greatest of such a list is to make him a giant of giants.

Yet, measured by actual accomplishments in world politics, the late John Hay measures with any of them, and it is perhaps not extravagant praise to say that he goes to the head of the list. Certain it is that he made the United States the diplomatic center of the world, that he maintained the integrity of China, that he opened the diplomatic door for the building of the isthmian canal, that he united the Anglo-Saxon world and made America its head, and that he introduced to all nations a new and more direct sort of diplomacy. Even a greater distinction probably belongs to him, though this is not generally known, as the moves made in international politics are mostly in the dark. Then, too, it is hard to say what would or would not have happened if certain steps had not been taken. Yet despite the veil of secrecy enough is known to have created the general belief that John Hay prevented a general European war from growing out of the conflict in the far east.

Loading up to this culminating role on the stage of statecraft were many minor positions in the diplomatic service. These began shortly after the civil war, and the first period ended in 1870. But in these few years three im-

When I look to the springs from which my blood descends the first ancestors I ever heard of were a Scotchman who was half English and a German woman who was half French. In this bewilderment of origin and experience I can only put on an aspect of deep humility in any gathering of favorite sons and confess that I am nothing but an American."

Washed His Mother's Dishes.

At the pleasant little Hoosier city of Salem John Hay was born in 1826. His father was a doctor in moderate circumstances, so that the boy was protected from the rough corners of poverty that have knocked greatness into or out of so many of our public men. While the future statesman was very young the Hays moved to Illinois, and it was in the common schools of that state that he began his education. John was a prize Sunday school scholar and always took the prizes for memorizing verses. This created envy in the breasts of the other boys, and they decided to humiliate the Sunday school teacher's pet. Hearing that he washed dishes for his mother and that he wore a large sleeve upon his doing so, they decided to take around some girls of whom John was rather fond and surprise him in the dish washing operation. He promptly appeared with a large pan full of dirty water in his

PLANS COMPLETE FOR BUILDING

SOON TO BE ERECTED IN GRANVILLE AS MUNICIPAL MEETING PLACE.

Cost of New Structure Will be $5,000—Riding Club to Attend the Centennial.

Granville, July 7.—The village council held an afternoon meeting on Wednesday evening, with all members present, and transacted considerable business of importance. The street committee reported that they had entered into a contract for the laying of a cement walk on the north side of Broadway, in front of business houses to Charles T. Johnson. The building committee reported that plans and specifications for the proposed municipal building were completed, and the ordinance committee was authorized to prepare an ordinance authorizing the issuing of bonds and advertisement of bids and secure legal counsel. The cost of the new building will be about $5,000. A petition was presented requesting council to reconsider sidewalk resolutions passed June 7, 1904. The petition was accepted and ordered filed. Council then adjourned to meet Tuesday evening, July 11.

The members of the Woman's Baptist Mission Circle met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. L. Gilpatrick. The subject of the discussion is "Mexico," with Mrs. Parsons as leader. At the close of the afternoon's program a picnic supper will be served.

The members of the Columbus Riding Club will attend the Granville Centennial in a body. The club is composed of forty well known Columbus gentlemen, each of whom owns his own horse. Mr. Frank Tallmadge, a member of the club, was in Granville the first of the week and instructed Dr. W. E. Clemmens to secure suitable grounds for a good sized tent, to be used for the accommodation of the horses while in Granville.

Mrs. J. M. Robinson and son Frank have returned from California, where they have been for the past four weeks.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will give a lawn fete on the Presbyterian lawn tomorrow, Saturday evening. The proceeds are to be used for the fountain fund. The ladies are working to raise money to place a drinking fountain on the street for the benefit of the public.

Miss Myra Sheppard, matron of the Methodist Old Peoples' Home of this place who has been visiting in Philadelphia, has sent a handsome flag to the home. It was made by the great-granddaughter of Elizabeth Ross, who made the first United States flag. The flag has the thirteen stars and stripes, emblematic of the thirteen original states, and is highly prized.

Neighbors Attracted by Her Screams Rush to Her Rescue
---Cool Heads All That Saved Harter from Rough Retribution at Hands of Enraged Citizens--- Warrant Issued for Arrest of Perpetrator.

The frantic cries and screams of a woman calling for aid summoned neighbors to the home of Mrs. Emily Peck about a quarter of a mile west of the village of Fredonia last evening.

Almond Bishop was the first to respond and upon arrival found the woman, who is aged about 67 years, helpless from blows administered by her son-in-law, a fellow of the name of Harter. Her face was beaten almost to a pulp while her body bears the marks of violent blows and kicks. Harter at first denied Bishop entrance to the premises but when he saw other neighbors flocking in across the fields he yielded and permitted Bishop to enter and administer to the woman's relief.

Dr. Edward Rutledge was summoned and rendered medical aid. Enraged citizens swarmed about the premises and it was only through the influence of cooler heads that Harter was saved from violence. A posse sought the office of the local justice of the peace with a view to having papers issued for the arrest of Harter, but failed to induce him to do so. This morning, however, Almond Bishop and several neighbors came to Newark and had a warrant issued from Mayor Crilly's court charging Harter with assault with intent to kill.

Harter and his wife reside with Mrs. Peck. The row of Thursday evening is said to be only one of several of the same kind that have taken place lately in the same household. Neighbors have for a long time felt outraged over the brutal treatment that Harter has accorded Mrs. Peck and threats of white-capping and suggestions of tar and feathers have been numerous. It is said that the cause of the brutal assault of Thursday evening was a request made by Mrs. Peck for some money Harter owes her. Harter came to Newark early this morning but the warrant issued was still unserved at 3 o'clock. He is about 40 years of age.

GERMAN COBBLER WRITES IRISH PLAY

Dramatic Muse Will be Newly Shod When Rolff Has Risen to Fame.

New York, July 7.—Clay Fitch, Augustus Thomas and all the other noted dramatists must now hide their diminished heads. A German shoemaker has written an Irish play and is seeking a manager willing to produce it.

Several Broadway managers have been approached by the author.

The new chaplain is William Rolff, 55 years old, with a jolly face and an accent that Weber and Fields might envy. He is no common cobbler, but a maker of theatrical shoes. As such he is known to all the producing managers and most of the players of any consequence, to say nothing of opera singers, dancers and chorus girls galore. He is, indeed, one of the characters of theatrical life, for during the thirty years that he has been making stage shoes his good humor has been proverbial among professional of high and low degree.

"Irish Nobility" is the title of Mr. Rolff's play. All the scenes are laid in Ireland and all the characters are Irish. Eight songs are introduced during the action and these were also written by the shoemaker-playwright. The manuscript is protected by copyright and any pirate who tries to steal the gems of Irish wit born in a German brain, does so at his peril.

Deed of a Bridegroom.
New Orleans, July 7.—Ending a month's honeymoon, John L. Flynn, a Mississippian, made a desperate attempt to murder his young wife at Kaplan and then committed suicide. Flynn was employed by a large cotton house here. In May last C. F. Hudson, an aged Confederate veteran of Greeley, Colo., arrived here with his daughter, Miss Virginia, a handsome young woman, to meet Flynn by appointment. On May 27 the couple were married in a boarding house and the father returned home. Subsequently the young couple went to Kaplan, where they apparently lived happily. Flynn fired two shots at his wife and then blew his own brains out.

Root and Secretaryship of State.
Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 7.—While no official confirmation is obtainable here of the announcement that Elihu Root has accepted President Roosevelt's proffer of the secretaryship of state in succession to John Hay, it can be said that the president will soon authorize a statement to be made regarding the matter. The precise nature of the statement is not known.

WELL ATTENDED

Was the Methodist Picnic Held Friday at Buckeye Lake Park.

The First M. E. church, the Second M. E. church of the East End, and Elizabeth chapel of the West End, with their respective Sunday schools, comprising all the Methodist churches of the city, held a joint union picnic at Buckeye Lake Park on Friday. The combined membership of the two Methodist churches and the chapel is very large, and the picnic held on Friday was of corresponding size. Between six and seven hundred men, women and children went out to the lake in the morning, and more followed in the afternoon. The day was spent in the enjoyment of the usual diversions incident to Buckeye Lake, and a pleasant time was had by all who were in attendance. Boating and fishing were among the enjoyments of the day, and various innocent sports were also enjoyed. Buckeye Lake Park furnishes an ideal place for such outings, and merely to breathe the pure air of the locality and enjoy the beautiful scenery of the lake is recreation and enjoyment enough.

COMING TO NEWARK

The boys of Company L of Dover are on the eve of expectancy for they will leave in the near future for a week's camp at Newark. The other day they leased ground for a rifle range out near the new ball park, and the crack of the rifles will soon be frequently heard in that vicinity. The company have small rifles that they will learn to shoot and then, when they become proficient with them, will use the regulation rifle. The new range will be 1500 feet long so that they can move their targets to any extremity they wish. Quite a number of boys from this city belong to the company and they say that they are enjoying the work very much.—Ohio Democrat and Times, New Philadelphia.
